SAMMIES OUT ON FIRING LINE

YOUNG OFFICERS COMMAND

NUMBER OF POINTS NETTED BY COTTON

New York, March 18.—As a result of further buying by trade interests and Liverpool commission houses, the cotton market had a very firm undertone early today and made new high records for the season. First prices were 8 to 15 points net higher, after which May sold up from 32.07c to 32.35c and July from 31.51c to 31.80c, with the level of prices toward the end of the first hour about 40 points above the close of Saturday. An absence of rain in Texas encouraged rather active buying of the new crop positions, and especially by Liverpool.

Later the market advanced to 32.40c for May and 31.83c for July on covering, largely by Wall street interests, and buying of the summer months by spot firms. Eastern mills were also moderate buyers on call today, chiefly of May contracts. While occasional reactions due to southern hedge selling occurred, the undertone of the market remained very firm and at midday prices were within a few points of the highest.

Trade was rather light in the early afternoon, with prices about 10 points under the top, reflecting rather favorable crop reports from Texas, which said that much cotton was up to a good stand in the southern part of the state. May sold around 32.32c and July 31.76c, or 35 to 36 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

New Orleans, March 18.—Cotton opened strong and active here today, heavy buying resulting from the continued dry weather in Texas and the developments in connection with Holland's shipping. Liverpool was a large buyer on this, according to comment. At the end of the first half-hour prices were 24 to 37 points up. March touched 32c, the highest price ever quoted in the contract market here.

In the trading up to noon the advance was widened to 36 to 41 points.

Realizing by longs entered the market, causing a slight reaction. At 1 o'clock prices were 26 to 28 points over Saturday's close. NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

LICE TRANSMIT TRENCH FEVER, STATES REPORT

American Red Cross Research Committee Announces Result of Exhaustive Experiments.

Paris, Sunday, March 17.-In announcing that it has been definitely determined that the disease called trench fever is transmitted by lice, the American Red Cross research committee sets forth other facts regarding the disease revealed by the experiments in which sixty-eight Americans, all soldiers from the New England states, voluntarily acted as subjects. .

These facts are formulated thus: The disease is a hitherto unknown form of fever. It is transmitted through the bites of body lice to human beings. The infecting agent is In the blood, occurring most abundantly in the first forty-eight hours after infection. The infecting agent is held back in bacterial filters. The disease, although alled trench fever, may be transmitted by lice brought from countries where no trenches ever existed, as subjects bitten by lice hatched from eggs brought from England developed the same symptoms as those bitten by lice from the trenches

The fever has been responsible for great loss of manpower at the front, and the discovery of its cause is re-garded as of incalculable value to all the allied armies, as preventive meas-New Orleans. UNIQUE PLAN DEVISED FOR LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE

Replica of Old Liberty Bell to Hang From Doorway Every

House in Chattanooga. The Liberty Bell-that old bell that rang out independence in Philadelphia in 1776—is to be featured in replica as part of the next liberty loan The night before the opening of the campaign a literty bell cut out of cardboard is to be hung from every door in this city—practically every door in the nation. It is a means of accentuating the fact that liberty is quite as much at stake as it was some hundred-odd years ago. The wording on the liberty bell is:

"Ring me again. The third liberty loan. Buy U. S. government bonds."
And right here is where the Boy Scouts will come in. They are being asked all over the country to assist in placing the bells on the doorknobs. The co-operation of the police and the newsboys also is asked.

This sight of every doorknob embellished with a liberty bell on the morning of the opening of the campaign will, it is believed, drive right home to everybody more forcibly than most anything else the fact that the campaign has started and is on. This is a national idea, and every-body in the Chattanooga zone and Chattanooga is asked to lend his cooperation toward carrying out the government's idea. Word was received from Washingurday, April 6, the last named day being the first anniversary of our entrance into the war. It is believed to be much more fitting to start the campaign on the anniversary instead of a day later.

This opening day is expected to be the greatest day of patriotism in the whole history of the United States. Throughout the country, from coast to coast, patriotic celebrations and demonstrations are planned on a scale never undertaken heretofore.

Right here in Chattanooga, with thousands of soldiers of various branches of the service, right at our door, it is certain that the city will see a military spectacle on & scale never heretofore surpassed.

The government is proud of its soldiers, and this will be a good occa-sion for the citizens of Chattanooga to see just what progress has been made with their training and equip-ment. The details of this celebration are being worked out and will be an-nounced within a few days.

From Washington there came yesterday another idea to stimulate in-terest in the forthcoming loan—that of appropriate window displays. Washington specially urges the presentation of patriotic living tableaux in prominent store windows during the campaign. It is expected that members of girls' and womens' organizations will gladly participate in these living pictures. This probably these living pictures. This probably will be taken up through one of the merchants' organizations, with the suggestion that a prize or some form of recognition be made of the best presented tableaux. The Chattanooga zone committee Monday placed an order for 25,000 one-star emblems—white star on khaki—to be worn on the lapel of the coat by every purchaser of a bond. An order also was placed for 2,500 see, but later of West Huntsville, died sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Reed. This one-star emblem to be worn on the lapel is especially designed so that the man who doesn't have one will be conspicuous. "There are a lot of good ideas coming along in connection with this campaign," said Mr. Nottingham to-day, "but we mustn't lose sight of the fact that the whole selling campaign is to be built around that slogan that has been adopted:

"'We can't label the shirker.

But we can label the worker."

You've often wondered about the officers who were in command of the American soldiersof your own boy, perhaps-right out on the firing line; the officers who lead them in raids and patrol work; the officers who live there in the front trenches with them. Five such American officers are shown in this photograph. They are the officers in command of one sector of the American front line trenches in Lorraine. They're young, almost boyish-looking men-like the fellows they command-but study their faces and you'll see brains and determination written there. Notice WYOMING OIL NEWS, Denver, Colo that they carry canes, too, as all the officers in Europe do.
